MIDVALE, Utah (May 23, 2018) – The Utah High School Activities Association (UHSAA) Board of Trustees will have two familiar faces in its ranks in the coming years.

Layton Christian Academy's Greg Miller has been sustained as the organization's private-school representative, while Brighton High School principal Tom Sherwood will join as the 5A/6A principal. Miller begins a new term as the private-school representative, while Sherwood will add the BOT service to his service on the UHSAA Executive Committee as the Region 7 representative.

Both Miller and Sherwood have previously served in other leadership capacities on UHSAA committees. The duo will join members Dale Whitlock, Allen Grunig and the State School Board's Laura Belnap as other members who have been added to the board, or re-elected, in preparation for the 2018-19 school year.

The UHSAA Board of Trustees is composed of school board members, district superintendents, principals, charter school and private school representatives, and a representative of the Utah State Board of Education.
